New York News

New York, Feb 29—An Albany dispatch says the Judiciary Committee will recommend the impeachment of Judges Cardoza and Barnard One of the matters which it is said will be presented to the Judiciary Committee against Judge Cardoza is charging him with withholding his decision in a simple case since 1870 and then asserting that the notes of the case had been lost and he should not decide it The suit was for recovery, by a sister of a defendant property left her

Remington & Sons deny the injurious statements reproduced in this county relative to French arms contracts

A New York special says that the Courrier des Etats Unis republishes from the La France of the 7th inst an affidavit of Hubbell, formerly shipping clerk of Remington & Son, which shows conclusively that the sale of arms was made knowingly to the French Government He testifies to various manipulations of Remington's books The accounts were kept first in ordinary cheap books, but after the receipt of telegrams from Remington in France the book keeper was ordered to recopy the books in order to open accounts for persons who were to figure as principals, while in actual operations they appeared as agents The names of these agents were not in the first set of books but appear in the second set selling arms to Remington, at advanced prices on vouchers The names of the agents were signed by other employees and testified to by Samuel Remington, and a sale of 100 sets of harness was registered in the books in the same manner, and the cost erroneously added

The impression is prevalent that Leet & Co may lose the general order business. They will continue to keep their bonded warehouse It is understood that the District Attorney cannot prosecute merchants who bribed Custom house officials on the testimony taken before the investigating committee—the statute exempting such witnesses from liability If independent proof appears during the prosecution of officials it will be made a basis of suits against merchants

WASHINGTON CITY

Seward s Opinion of the Washington Treaty—Ottawa News.

Washington, Feb 29—An interviewer with ex Secretary Seward at Auburn yesterday elicited his opinions on the Washington Treaty He considers that a great omission is existing in the present treaty in that it does not insist on an apology from England for the Queen's proclamation, that war with England is impossible and that the time for the settlement of the Alabama claims has not yet arrived The demand for consequential damages is in his estimation beneath the dignity of our Government

An Ottawa dispatch states that the Hon James Howe condemns the policy of England in withdrawing troops from Canada and predicts a rupture between the home Government and the Dominion if a better understanding is not arrived at He urges independence as the only course open to the Canadians and asks the people to prepare for separation

The Alabama Claims.

Chicago Feb 29—A Washington special says it is positively stated that our Government will refuse to modify the Alabama claims, and will accept no compromise other than the award of the Geneva Conference after an impartial hearing of the same Secretary Fish s reply to Granville's note will be ready to be forwarded to England by Saturday

From San Francisco

Geo Stevens, professor of the strap game, was to day sentenced to one year in the county jail, the full extent of the law

It has transpired since The Chicken was convicted of murder that he sent word to a boatman at North Beach on the day after the murder, that he had shot a German and wanted to hire him to carry the body over the bay in his boat The boatman however refused It is further stated that one of the witnesses named Kelly said that if he had been asked while on the stand, he would have testified that Devine came to him on the day before the murder and told him he had got a German who had several hundred dollars in money and proposed that they should take him out and kill him

THE TERRITORIES

Many persons at Walla Walla are contracting for the erection of buildings this year

An Indian on the Umatilla Reservation has been arrested for murdering one of his brethren He will be handed over to his tribe for trial and will have to make a heavy [illegible] of blankets horses etc for indemnity

Intelligence is received from Yakima Valley to February 14th Cattle had done well Of one thousand head in Kittitass Valley on the Upper Yakima only eight had died Throughout the valley generally the loss has not exceeded three per cent Most of this has occurred on the Lower Yakima

Says the Walla Walla Statesman Never since the settlement of the country has there been so much snow in the mountains as at present The consequence of this immense snow fall will be very high water when the spring freshets set in and for this the settlers along the line of the Columbia river should be prepared

Charles Ward, a farmer living about fifteen miles from Walla Walla was shot on the 24th ult by John McAllister who lives near him The parties had an altercation in a saloon at Walla Walla about a horse trade The shot took effect in the abdomen, and beyond question will prove fatal McAllister and a man named Charles Walker who seemed to be an accessory were lodged in jail

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

The Alvarado Beet Sugar Company, in California, are preparing to plant an enlarged area of land in the spring and they expect to harvest 12,000 which it is supposed will enable the mill to commence work in August and keep busy for eight months

The San Francisco Bulletin thus speaks of a brace of smutty bills now before the California Legislature The bills to license gambling and to license prostitution ought to be killed at one blow by somebody s legislative bludgeon Of the two the latter is the worst Even in its salient clauses it is wholly impracticable It is evidently a measure for the encouragement of black mailing and the most desperate kind of robbery Both of these bills are bad in principle and detail They are neither of them deserving of a half hour's consideration by the Legislature.

Some of the Democratic papers of Oregon were in tribulation several days ago when it was announced that a deficiency bill had been passed by Congress They took it as another proof of the "wasteful extravagance of Radical administration" that the expenses for last year were something more than the appropriations Now, the present administration of Oregon is expending more money than was appropriated, though the appropriations were larger than ever before, and next fall there will be a large deficiency bill to pass But this will be a matter too near home for our brethren of the Democratic press to take notice of

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS

Miss Alice Phils, an American girl, has married $6,000,000 and the Marquis de Chasseloup Laubat

It is a curious fact that the Appletons have sold more copies of Webster's Speller than there are inhabitants in the United States

Arizona Territory does not owe a dollar and has $3 313 in the treasury The most of the counties in the Territory, it is also said, are free from indebtedness

The Army bill for this year appropriates $29,538 799 Of this amount $12,000,000 is for the pay of the army and discharged soldiers $12 000,000 for sea coast cannon and carriages $150,000 for the manufacture of arms and the national armory

The Litigant law in California, has been repealed. The Senate, which is Democratic voted 29 to 9 on the repeal The bill had previously passed the House So this measure after which the iniquitous Litigant Act of Oregon was copied, has been swept away

The House Committee on Public Buildings has presented a bill for the construction of an addition to the Post Office at Indianapolis, at a cost not exceeding $100 000, for the purchase of additional ground adjoining the site for the purchase of a site for Government buildings at Cincinnati, at a cost not exceeding $300 000 also, for appropriate buildings at Hartford

The Sales of Arms to France

A few days ago Sumner introduced in the Senate a resolution to investigate the alleged manufacture and sale of arms for the French in the workshops of the United States during the recent war between France and Germany The resolutions evoked an earnest discussion during which it was shown that no arms had been sold by the United States to the French Government or to any of its agents that the arms sold had been disposed of in the usual way under express authority of an Act of Congress passed soon after the close of the great rebellion, and that there was nothing in the transaction that the German Government had ever complained of or even noticed The debate is interesting from the political turn it took, and we therefore present the material parts of it

The resolution was taken up, and Sumner advocated the Senate at length on the subject, claiming that the facts in the case so far as brought to light, were such as cast a suspicion of moral obliquity upon the Government He avowed his purpose of speaking of facts, not men and if anybody was pointed at by the statements he was about to make, it would be the fault of the facts and not his fault These facts had been in his possession, for some time but he had postponed bringing them before the Senate, because he knew they would be laid before the President and Secretary of War, and he had reason to believe they would institute an inquiry They had not done so, however but the Secretary of War had made to the House of Representatives a report upon the subject The character of that report would appear as he proceeded and the Senate would judge whether it didn t fall under some of the suspicions which attached to the whole transaction He then began the history of the transactions referred to in the resolution stating first that Place, late Consul General of France, had been convicted of fraud in purchasing arms for his Government, and convicted mainly on the testimony of Samuel Remington of Ilion, New York who was authenticated as a witness in the French courts by the certificate of our Secretary of War.

A long discussion ensued, in which Sherman spoke against laying aside the regular business for political debate upon alleged facts not yet investigated

Wilson favored an immediate and full investigation of this subject

Morton took the same ground

Trumbull argued the propriety of disposing of the resolution, and he could not understand Sherman's fears of a political debate, when surely this is not a political question and Sumner was not a political adversary

The Senator from Ohio (Sherman) said his honorable friend was very innocent (laughter) and he asked if he could give no motives under the heavens in pressing the resolution now, except to invite political discussion

Sumner disclaimed any purpose of going into a political discussion

Carpenter said the resolution was a bombshell which three or four Senators had long been preparing, and which was designed at the proper time to be exploded, and to blow General Grant and his friends out of water Sumner had just touched the fuse, and he (Carpenter) was in favor of having the explosion at once [Laughter]

The resolution was taken up—ayes 40 nays, 17, and Sumner resumed He again disclaimed any intention of entering into a political discussion, or any idea of attacking General Grant or any one else. He would simply speak of the public service with a view of relieving the country from suspicion He then restated and commented upon the facts and allegations set forth in the preamble He referred to the alleged discrepancy between the sum paid by the French Government and the amount received by the United States Government

Morton said: Did the Senator mean to have it understood that our Government sold arms directly to the French Government through their known agent? The discrepancy mentioned had no significance, as the parties to whom the United States Government sold undoubtedly made a profit when they sold to the French Government

Sumner declared he had made and would not be driven into making an allegation against any one He was simply stating facts and he asked only for an inquiry, which the facts as they are in evidence, justify. He concluded with a lengthy discussion of the obligations of neutrals

Wilson Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, said he felt it his duty to make an explanation He favored always the fullest investigation and if any wrong had been committed he wished it discovered and punished He then said that at the close of the war our Government had arms munitions and other war material on hand to the value of a million of dollars which Congress authorized the Secretary of War to dispose of. The sales commenced in 1865 and continued until 1871 Arms, etc were sold by the Government from April 1, 1865 to the 30th of June 1871 amounting to over $15 000 000, every cent of which had been paid into the Treasury and as to the alleged sale of arms to the French Government he was authorized to say that our Government had not sold a dollar s worth to that Government or to any man whom they knew to be its agent At the time of the sale to Richardson the Government had no knowledge that he was in any way connected with Remington As to the suspicion expressed by the French Assembly it should be remembered that these purchases were made mostly by the Gambetta Government upon which the present Government of France is trying to cast imputations

Harlan made a similar speech and Conkling confirmed it calling attention to the fact that the Remingtons had been dealing largely in arms at home and abroad long before the Franco-German war and since and the Government was in a sense on guard in respect to selling arms to them, and was not dealing with them as the agents of France or anybody else

Morton addressed the Senate and said Sumner will have great difficulty in convincing the country that the introduction of this resolution was not a move on the Presidential chess board, intended to affect the next Presidential Convention and election by the alienation of the German vote from the Republican party He criticised the resolution particularly the preamble which assumed the truth of the allegations to be investigated Referring to the assumption of the preamble that there was a discrepancy of nearly $1 750,000 between the Treasury accounts and those of the War Department, he denied there was any such discrepancy.

Sumner said the preamble only said there was an apparent discrepancy in the reports of the two Departments

Morton asserted that the charge was frivolous and without foundation

Edmunds, interrupting declared there was not even an apparent discrepancy, and that Sumner and Schurz had fallen into an error in supposing there was by looking for items under the wrong heading in the Treasury report

Morton continuing, asserted that there was nothing to show or even give ground for suspicion that the sale of arms and ammunition by the United States Government had not been legal and in accordance with the law of nations He commented upon the fact that the Prussian Government knew all about these sales at the time, and could have bought the arms themselves if they had wished They made no complaints and permitted the arms to be openly shipped from New York to French ports without objection and he said it was very extraordinary that interrogation now should be made in the United States Senate

Schurz asked whether he meant to insinuate that either Sumner or himself (Schurz) was acting in behalf of the Prussian Government

Morton did not mean that, but he did mean to say that when the Prussian Government made no objections there was no occasion for American Senators to try and convince them that they had cause of complaint Morton reiterated the statement of his belief that the object of the resolution was to alienate the German vote, but he did not believe the attempt would succeed The Germans were a well informed and thinking people, and did not belong to anybody They are Republicans, because they believe in the principles of the Republican party They are well aware of the notorious fact that the sympathies of the party and its leading journals were with Germany in the war, while those of the Democracy were with France He further said, even if there was anything wrong in these sales of arms, the President was not to blame for it, as he had never [illegible] them, and Schurz had admitted that the Secretary of War was not to blame Morton in conclusion eulogized the administration, and declared this attack on the President would recoil upon its authors He referred to the third party movement, and warned Liberal Republicans against the delusion that they could organize a new party which would take in the Democracy He said the third party movement was only a game of the Democrats, but it would not succeed The platform of Liberal Republicans, he said, was substantially the Democratic one on which even the Ku Klux of the South could stand, and if it should triumph at the next election 5,000 000 colored citizens in the South could not receive protection from Ku Klux persecutions

The Remington Arms Contract.

A Chicago Tribune special from New York, (Feb 16) says concerning the Remington Arms Company's contract with France

The company declares all transactions were conducted in a fair and open manner, that no trouble could be made between the French Government and ours The contracts under which the company acted were made by Samuel Remington, a member of the firm, and it was specially arranged and understood that nothing would be done which could in any manner violate the neutrality laws The company s purchases were made through proper and responsible persons adhering to the the strict letter of the law Nor was there the least concealment that the arms were bought for France On almost every occasion of the shipment of the arms the company alleges that the exact amount of shipment was copied from the steamer s manifest and published in the journals of this city The giving of commission to Chevileau is explained by the statement that at the time the contracts were made for heavy supplies, letters of credit to a large amount were sent by France to its consul Chouteau, as Place s friend, said he could persuade Place to let the Remingtons have the use of money to about half a million if they would pay him a small percentage This they did, preferring, they allege, to pay a commission instead of borrowing on the street at a time when the market was stringent, as it was then Colonel Squire general agent of the company went abroad for a final settlement with France and is now on his way home having closed matters to the mutual satisfaction of all parties

Of Six Years' Standing.

PORTLAND OREGON Feb 22, 1872.
TO THE PUBLIC—I wish to add my testimonial to the number that Dr ABORN has received while here For about six years I suffered terribly with Granulated Sore Eyes being nearly blind at times and life was but a burden to me in this miserable condition No treatment that I had ever received done me any good I was advised to apply to Dr Aborn some six [illegible] ago but was deterred from doing so at the time as some said that he was [illegible] high in his charges that I thought it was useless for me to apply Some two months since I learned that he was not only certain to cure all such diseases of the eye but that his charges were in many cases even less than those who charged me by the visit so I applied to Dr Aborn and informed him of my long suffering and circumstances The Doctor seeing that I was in a pitiful condition, he at once proposed to cure me and would make no charge unless I was able to pay I hardly knew how to accept such a generous offer I placed myself under his treatment and in two weeks time I looked and felt like another person and to-day I am well, with sound eyes thanks to the Doctor's skillful treatment I have paid the Doctor only a small amount He would not accept more, as I am a poor woman Such kind treatment as I have received from him—a stranger—was so unexpected that I hardly knew how to express my heartfelt gratitude The afflicted who apply to Dr Aborn will find him a kind hearted and charitable gentleman I have lived in Portland about 20 years and am well known to most of our old citizens

Primary Meetings

It is very fashionable for citizens to neglect one of the most important of their political duties, that of attending the primary elections. They find it inconvenient or irksome, and are [illegible] with the [illegible] think [illegible] objectionable, and are in favor of some other method, generally an ideal one. Not a few studiously avoid primary meetings and after the nominations are made as studiously find fault with the names that are presented. That is, they complain of proceedings and results which they have not attempted to change, correct or prevent, and think that some system might be devised to take the place of the primary. But they never devise it.

The season for primary meetings is at hand again. On Saturday (to-morrow) they will be held by the Republicans in most of the counties in the State. In Multnomah the delegates elected to the County Convention will have no duty to perform but that of choosing delegates to the State Convention. The delegates so chosen will have a voice in nominating a candidate for Congress, candidates for the Presidential Electoral College and a Prosecuting Attorney for this district.

The arrangements that will be made for receiving votes at the primary meetings in each precinct will be such as will afford every opportunity for a free expression of opinion in the choice of delegates, and it is trusted that Republicans will be induced to lay aside the habitual indifference which many of them have manifested for primary meetings, and attend to this duty.

License They M[illegible], When They Cry Liberty"

Democratic authorities tell us they have no sympathy with the Ku Klux, yet they denounce all the measures taken to suppress that order. In the same way they declared that they had no sympathy with the rebellion, yet they opposed with all their energy every measure to suppress it. We take this from the Herald:

> The editor of the OREGONIAN has a long article discussing what the Ku Klux law passed by Congress, authorizes, and what it does not authorize. Without multiplying words it is sufficient to know that it authorizes the President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and to send bayonets to rule the people, and that he has done just these things. These are enough for men, who want to be freemen, to know, and if the country wants to maintain freedom it will not submit to such despotism.

It cannot but occur to every reader that this language is identical with that used by the Democratic press in opposition to the legislation and other measures employed to quell the great Southern rebellion. Then the President was denounced for suspending the writ of habeas corpus, the march of the national armies to the South was characterized as "sending bayonets to rule the people," and it was asserted that "if the country wanted to maintain freedom, it would not submit to such despotism."

The Ku Klux law authorizes the President "to send bayonets to rule the people" when the people of any State or part of State are in rebellion against established authority, and when the authorities of such State cannot or will not restore order. In several of the counties of South Carolina, where there had been for months unlawful combinations of men setting law at defiance and pursuing courses of violence, this law has been enforced. The results have been salutary. Bands of outlaws have been dispersed and their leaders brought to punishment. We know that some call this "tyranny." But they are the same persons who called it "tyranny" a few years ago to enforce the authority of the United States, to quell the great rebellion and to restore a divided country.

The simple fact is, the Democratic party expects political aid from the Ku Klux and does not want that order suppressed. This is the fact, the motive, which lies behind and inspires all this denunciation of a measure calculated to break up Southern brigandage and restore peace and order. Hence these words of dreadful note about the overthrow of liberty, because lawlessness and rebellion are overthrown.

The Litigant Law in California Repealed

The most corrupt and profligate Legislature that ever assembled in California was that of 1870. From it hints were taken for much of the legislation of the last session in our own State; and the Litigant Act that now stands on our statute-book was borrowed directly from the California Legislature. The people of that State decided that they did not want another Assembly like the one which abused its trust in such a multitude of ways, and hence next time elected one of a different political character. But though the Republicans had a large majority in that body on joint ballot, the Democrats, by means of Senators holding over, retained two majority in the Senate. It was doubted whether any of the partisan legislation of the former session could be repealed, but it now appears that the Litigant Act was too odious a measure for even a Democratic Senate to endure much longer. That body by a large majority has passed a bill for its repeal, and ere now it is erased from the place it held among the statutes of California. The Marysville Appeal, commenting on the repeal of the Act, gives expression to the following statements, every one of which could with equal propriety be applied to the twin fellow of the Act which still exists in Oregon:

> Probably no single act of the Democracy during the time they were in power has done so much to injure them in the popular estimation as the enactment of this law. It was uncalled for by any public necessity; it had no possible excuse of meeting any popular requirement or demand; the pretense that it was a meritorious measure was thin and untenable, and the bold fact that it was a purely partisan measure gotten up for the sole purpose of giving to Democratic papers the monopoly of legal publications was too apparent to be disguised. The bill established exorbitant rates, and these were paid to journals which in all cases where there was newspaper competition had the least circulation and influence, while in many instances miserable sickly sheets having no apparent aim in living except to devour litigant pap were started. The people became tired of being compelled to support papers in which they had no interest, and they very speedily detected the enormity of the swindle when they were called upon to pay the bills of these papers for legal advertising. Attorneys and clients soon discovered that they were taxed about three times the ordinary rates under the operations of this swindling arrangement to "protect litigants," and estates left to the widow and orphan were the fattest morsels seized upon by these partisan vultures.

The Oregon law owes its origin to the demands of the former proprietors of the Herald of this city. The next Legislature, if it obeys the will of the people, will repeal it by such a vote that the Governor's veto cannot save it.

It is reported by telegraph that Germans are organizing at San Francisco with a view [illegible] participating in the coming Presidential [illegible] [illegible] Republicans. [illegible] those taking this step have doubtless heretofore been Democrats. Dissatisfied with the progressive tendencies of that party, they want to take a step forward. It is assumed by some of the Democratic organs that this movement is a sign that German Republicans are putting the regular Republican organization. It is quite as much or even more a sign of the dissolving condition of Democracy.

Fir for Shipbuilding

The yellow fir of this country is known to possess very great value for shipbuilding. Experiments at Mare Island Navy Yard have shown that its strength is actually greater, that is, it will stand a greater strain without breaking than Mississippi valley oak. John S. Hittell of San Francisco, in a recent article in The West, says:

> For ships yellow fir is unequalled in value. On land absolute bulk may be used as compensation for relative weakness; the brittle timber obtained near at hand may be cheaper and practically better than stronger material brought from a distance, but the same rule does not apply to ships. In them the relation of bulk and weight to strength are matters of great importance. The strongest and most elastic timber is preferable even at a considerable increase of price, and that is yellow fir. In the summer of 1871 the opinions of a number of San Francisco experts in ship building were obtained in regard to the relative value of different kinds of timber, and all agreed in giving the preference to yellow fir. They said that it is not only stronger than the best oak, but it does not rot so soon in ships; it preserves its elasticity longer when nailed in the form of curved planks on the frame; and it is lighter, so that a fir ship containing as many cubic feet of wood as an oak ship will not sink so deep in the water, will be stronger, and, on account of elasticity, will be less likely to break by striking against rocks. An experienced New York shipbuilder says yellow fir is the best material for yachts because the displacement is less in proportion to the strength and tonnage than that of any other wood.

The Methodist Church.

The Protestant Churchman has this to say about the growth of Methodism:

> Methodist Missions now gird the world with annual conferences in every grand division. Germany and Switzerland have a theological school and a newspaper, fifty missionaries, and eight thousand people. Liberia is the oldest mission, planted forty years ago, and has been most successful. India has a respectable conference of twenty traveling preachers, eighty local preachers and eight hundred members. China has five missions, two thousand one hundred thirty-nine strong, it is claimed.

The returns of the Methodist Church for 1871 have just appeared in full. We give a summary:

Bishops, 6; traveling preachers in annual conferences, 9 699; local preachers in annual conferences, 11,382; lay membership in annual conferences, 1,421,323; churches, 13,440; value of churches, $56,911,900; parsonages 4 309; Sunday schools, 17,555; Sunday scholars, 1,267,742; baptisms, adults, 65,770; baptisms, children, 54,517; contributions church extension $74 048 36; contributions Tract Society, $21,455 21; contributions American Bible Society, $84,107 29; contributions Sunday School Union, $23,159 47; missionary society, churches and Sunday schools, $617 340 11; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society; Freedman's Aid Society, American and Foreign Christian Union, and other benevolent institutions (estimated), $250,000.

Who among the living pioneers of Oregon came to the country first? Mr Gray, of Astoria, in a recent communication to this paper said that S. H. Smith, of Clatsop, who came to the country in 1832, is the man. Ex Gov Curry thinks that J. H. O'Neill, of Polk county, and T. J. Hubbard, who, we believe, now lives in Marion, were both here at an earlier date than any other person or persons living. We do not undertake to decide, but incline to the opinion that Mr Gray is correct.

Need of Roads

PORTLAND, Feb 28 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

SIR: If you will allow me a small space in your paper I will endeavor to give my idea in reference to the plank road project that seems to be exciting the minds of the people of the city of Portland, as well as the farmers of Washington and Yamhill counties. It is a fact pregnant with meaning that if we ever have roads fit for traveling in this part of Oregon, we must have a better road system than the present one. The amount of rain that falls here during the winter season makes it impossible to construct an earth road that will stand, and I make the assertion without fear of contradiction that there are not ten miles of road leading to or from the city of Portland on which a team of horses can be safely loaded with one thousand pounds. And although we have a number of wealthy citizens that keep fine horses and carriages, yet the best turf horse in the United States could not be driven at a speed of over five miles per hour with safety to himself and driver. And this can be said of the city of Portland—of the metropolis of Oregon—of the city that is destined to become the great trading point of the Northwest.

In order that you may the more fully realize the correctness of these statements, I would ask you to harness a team and trot some of your friends out ten or fifteen miles (be sure and take choice of roads), and if you don't return feeling as though you had been on a rather disagreeable mission, then you are gifted with something that your humble servant don't possess. The prosperity of the city of Portland depends upon the development of the surrounding country. The country cannot be developed without easy communication to market. Hence it becomes us as citizens of Portland to fully understand the position we now occupy. Are we a manufacturing people? No. Are we so peculiarly favored by our natural location as to require no energy upon our part? Has not nature done as much, perhaps, for some other point as for us? Can a city prosper without a corresponding value between city and country property? Not unless it is a manufacturing town. Did you ever think of the consequences that are sure to follow when a city gets in advance of that which supports it? Your humble servant has been there.

All the difficulties that we now labor under may be overcome by a correct road system—by plank roads instead of earth roads. It will cost money to build them—but when built they will be self supporting. No matter what the cost may be, we must build them or take the consequences. The vast amount of agricultural lands lying on the projected line of road for the first twenty miles would be brought into cultivation, and be the means of increasing the trade of this city at least twenty per cent, as well as increasing the prosperity and wealth of Washington county in a corresponding ratio. Lend your assistance in this first twenty miles and rest assured in less than three years you will have over one hundred miles of plank road leading to the city of Portland. Every property holder in this city—every retail and wholesale dealer—in fact every business man should contribute liberally in the way of taking stock. The citizens of Washington county are alive to their interests, and are coming up to the work like men. Let us show that we are equally interested in the enterprise by meeting them half way.

At Santa Barbara, California, strawberries were brought into market a month ago and are now in full supply.

English Statement for the Geneva Arbitration.

A London dispatch of the 16th February gives the following interesting intelligence:

The case submitted to the Geneva Board of Arbitration by the counsel for Great Britain in regard to the Alabama claims has been laid before Parliament, and is published. The case is divided in parts. Part 1 remarks that no definite complete statement of the American claims has ever been furnished. The Treaty of Washington and the previous correspondence will supply, however, a general definition of the demands made by the United States. Rule 2 of Article VI of the Treaty of Washington is quoted as follows:

> "A neutral Government is bound not to permit or suffer either belligerent to make use of its ports or waters as a base of naval operations against others, or for the purpose of fueling, or the augmenting of military supplies or arms, or the recruitment of men."

This rule is interpreted as prohibiting the supply of war vessels from neutral ports, but is not prohibitory of the sale of arms or munitions of war in the ordinary course of commerce. The claims submitted are for damages growing out of vessels, respecting which the United States allege that Great Britain failed in her international duty. The tribunal must determine the question of failure of duty. If it decides that there has been such failure, then it must award a gross sum for damages or define the limit of liabilities for the guidance of assessors in paying the damages. The circumstances of the sailing of the steamers Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Shenandoah, materially are dissimilar, but Great Britain maintains that in respect to none of them has she failed in her full obligations or rendered herself justly liable.

Part 2 gives a history of the civil war in the United States, showing that the course of England and the maritime Powers was that of vigilant, scrupulous neutrality.

Part 3 makes a statement of international rights, and the duties of England bearing thereon, and of the faithful performance and execution thereof by Great Britain during the war. It also gives a detailed account of the action of Minister Adams and Earl Russel, to prevent the departure of the rebel cruisers.

Part 4 shows the limits of the power possessed by the British Government to prevent such departures.

Parts 5, 6, 7 and 8 respectively present in detail the facts relative to the steamers Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Shenandoah.

Part 9 sets forth that the steamers Georgia and Shenandoah were never equipped for war in the British dominion. Her Majesty's Government was only informed respecting these vessels after their departure. The Alabama and Florida even didn't receive their armament in British waters. The peculiar circumstances of the Alabama's escape are recited, and England's vigilant endeavors to prevent her sailing, as well as America's failure in the attempts to capture her, are insisted on.

Part 10 complains of the disadvantages under which Great Britain labors in meeting an unprecedented case. The document concludes as follows:

> "While England regrets the departure of the rebel cruisers from her ports, she cannot acknowledge the justice of the claims against her for pecuniary damages for their acts. The United States must solidly establish the facts of England's negligence. England is ready to accept the award of the tribunal of arbitration, whether favorable or unfavorable. She desires only that it shall be just."

Fisk, Jr, had large policies on his life. The Hartford Courant says that the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company of that city was offered a risk on his life for $40 000, which however it declined to take. It was urged that he was a good physical risk, but the officers didn't consider him morally sound, and on that account looked upon him as hazardous and let him alone. The sequel justified their judgment.

SUBJECT— MISTAKES.
Mr NESBIT'S Lecture on "Shoddy," delivered in our Course of a year ago, was such a decided success that no one who heard him then will fail to hear him this time. The subject will admit of the same general treatment as "Shoddy," and will enable him to present the many different kind of mistakes which make up the total of failure to human affairs, or from which we gain the experience necessary to success.
He will show the variety of mistakes, their use and danger—mistakes sad and ludicrous, mistakes in love, marriage, business, kitchens, fish reforms, religion, politics, &c, &c. The Lecture will abound with illustrations drawn from the whole field of literature as well as real life. Anecdotes pathetic and amusing will sparkle here and there, together with recitations from various authors.
In obedience to a generally expressed desire Mr. Nesbit has consented to recite again the beautiful and inspiring poem of "Barbara Fritchie," in the previous rendition of which he showed himself a finished and dramatic elocutionist.

Chairman County Committee

Mrs Miller's Lecture —Mrs M M Miller delivered last evening a really excellent lecture upon Man—His Past Present and Future. Since her first effort in this direction she has done much to overcome that timidity and consequent appearance of awkwardness which so much troubled her before and her appearance last evening was comparatively easy and her manner entirely composed. She read her lecture in a clear voice and in a manner which would compare favorably with the style of the veteran female speakers. Of the matter of her lecture we are pleased to be able to say that the display of historical research and general reading not only pleased but surprised her friends. It abounded in happy allusions to persons and events, sprightly passages of fancy, occasional irony now and then a bit of excellent philosophy and was strongly marked throughout with independent thought and practical good sense. The follies and vices of men were not spared nor were his virtues and noble qualities ignored or overlooked. We thought her treatment of men and women as they are associated in the [illegible] field, the most fair and impartial that we had ever [illegible] at the hands of a woman lecturer. She [illegible] in a style at once terse vigorous and [illegible], the progress man had made [illegible] ages, toward the proper recognition of [illegible] proper relations with himself, and the part that woman has herself enacted in the matter of her own destiny. We cannot pretend to follow her through this notice would become very soon too long. Toward the conclusion, addressing the present woman, she gave to women and gives some sound and excellent advice, and then predicted that the coming man would make it unnecessary that woman should bother her head about politics that he would of his own inclination place woman in an independent position, without imposing upon her the cares of government, that he would institute all the reforms that woman would have any need of and secure to her all the rights and privileges that could do her any good. We confess to a little [illegible] surprise to hear her say to the present man that he need have no dread of the woman who makes woman suffrage her one idea, nothing whatever to fear from the woman who only wants to vote for, she said, she will pass off the stage of action, the same as did the Amazons of old, she will pass away, but the spirit of progress will go on until woman shall have reached her highest attainment of felicity and usefulness.

Circuit Court Records —Our present very [illegible] County Clerk has already introduced several much needed reforms in the manner of doing business in his office, and the methods of [illegible] ing and keeping records, files, etc. There is [illegible] thing, however, that ought to be done, and that is to arrange the old Circuit Court records in some systematic shape, so that reference can be made to them without the infinite deal of [illegible] which is now constantly experienced. We [illegible] that the members of the bar have united in a petition to the County Court for an [illegible] tion for the carrying out of this purpose. We have some personal knowledge of the state in which the papers are found which accu[illegible] under the old clerks, prior to Mr Norden's time, and the difficulty of finding any given [illegible], and we are convinced of this fact that if they are allowed to accumulate, without some [illegible] of easy reference, for a few years longer, it will be next to impossible for either attorneys or any one else to find such papers as they may require. This state of affairs is directly chargeable to the lax manner in which the duties of the County Clerk's office were performed by the old incumbents. It cannot be expected that one Clerk must complete and perfect the records of any of his predecessors. That these papers and [illegible] must be completed and arranged, some time or another, is a fact undisputed by any lawyer who has business with them, and it might as well be done now as at any other time. They can now, under the direction of Mr Parrish—the [illegible] Clerk—be systematically arranged and [illegible] at a comparatively trifling expense, and we think it but poor economy to refuse an [illegible] for such a very necessary public [illegible]

The Ghost Still Stalking —The latest story about that ghost that Mitchell bought showing that Johnny Clark was actually buried in California left the lone lorn gentleman who lies at the dead-house, without the shadow of a foundation on which to establish his identity. Happily, however, we have obtained a clue which his friends may follow up if they like and they may [illegible] ly find at the other end of the thread the name of the ghost. We are told that it is reported that somebody heard a rumor to the effect that [illegible] ing more than a year ago, there was a w[illegible] residing in this city whose husband had been for some time in the Idaho mines, that the [illegible] finally fell sick and died that the w[illegible], in the first gush of widowed grief, sent an order to have the remains sent down here for burial, which order was executed but not till after some delay that meantime, the poor wife's [illegible] heart began rapidly to heal under the [illegible] ing influences of honied words uttered by a live man, and that finally tired of waiting the arrival of her dead man, she incontinently got up and "dusted" with a healthy specimen of the genus homo who didn't want to stay here and meet the ghost. This story, probably, has no more truth in it than either of those already told, but we don't charge anything for it.

The Young Men's Christian Association Course of Lectures —There are two prominent reasons among others it seems to us, why there should be a good attendance at the lectures to be given for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association. First by a liberal patronage the Association will be benefitted pecuniary. It is now in debt the Secretary informs us, at least $400. He has disbursed since May nearly $900, in charity $700 of which has been distributed since the 1st of December. The current necessary expenses also are at present $100 per month. If [illegible] will consider this they will certainly give [illegible] very encouragement. Again those who buy a ticket for the course we believe will get their money's worth every cent will come back in wholesome, substantial pleasure. It will be worth something to have a seat in the new Masonic Hall something more to listen to the music that will be furnished by Messrs Wyatt, De Prans Schuyler Nesfield and others than the lectures—the first, subject "Mistakes," by Rev Mr Nesbit—we doubt not will be a success and no mistake. We venture to say that those only will make a blunder who do not attend. They will lose an opportunity of both doing and receiving good.

Is it News of the Harrington —We find in the Advocate a letter from Rev W T Chapman dated Monticello W T, February 20th, in which occurs the following paragraph: "During this time I have made the trip to the Quinaielt Indian Agency which is thirty miles up the beach that is north from the entrance from Gray's Harbor. While I was there the Indians brought in from the beach several articles as buckets oars, and the like, evidently relics of some vessel that has been wrecked at sea. The pails were marked, Harrington which was the only name found up to the time of my leaving." There is not in this much foundation for a sensation as it was already known that when the Harrington went to sea her decks were washed by a sea which carried away one or two boats buckets oars, etc. These are doubtless the articles picked up by the Indians.

East Portland. We learn from the E[illegible] that the last meeting of the Board of Trustees an ordinance was passed requiring property owners to clear the streets in front of their premises. Business which was suspended on account of the flood has been resumed. Quite a number of citizens are engaged in transplanting fruit and ornamental trees about their premises. The other evening a thief entered one of the rooms of the Oriental Hotel and took therefrom a new suit of clothes belonging to one of the boarders valued at about $50.

County Assessments —To day March 1st, the day provided by law for the Assessors to begin the work of making the assessments of property for the year 1872. Mr Dolan of this county will commence the work at once, and every Friday will be found at the Court house for the purpose of receiving statements of property holders etc.

AMUSEMENTS

Laila —Prof McGibeney will produce this beautiful operetta at the Congregational Church next Monday Wednesday and Friday evenings. It has been in long course of preparation, and will no doubt be produced in excellent style.

The Oldest Inhabitant —Our attention was called, yesterday, to a statement in Gov. Curry's lecture, in which Mr J H O Neil of Polk county, is the earliest Pioneer of Oregon now living within the State and the gentleman who mentioned the matter stated that he had often talked with Mr. Solomon H Smith of Clatsop Plains who came out to Oregon in 1832—two years before the arrival of O Neil, Hubbard and the others mentioned. Mr Smith came out in a whaling vessel which entered the Columbia in 1832 and he has constantly since that year, resided at Clatsop Plains. Governor Curry, in making his statement must have overlooked this old pioneer who as against Messrs O'Neil and Hubbard is entitled to the designation of the oldest inhabitant.

Captured —It seems that when the escapade of sailors from the bark Mete occurred on Wednesday the carpenter who had up to that time stayed with the vessel also went ashore. During the day a writ of arrest for desertion was sued out against him and he was arrested. Later in the day one of the original deserters was arrested and yesterday another was caught. One of the six was already in jail for debt. There are therefore three of the six in limbo. The proceedings against the carpenter and the two men caught since the last desertion is one instituted subsequent to the petition for habeas corpus.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE

[illegible]

From the Advocate

Rev C W Shaw pastor of the M E Church at Albany was unexpectedly arrested on Tuesday of last week and summoned to appear at the popular store of Hla n Young & Co, where he was presented with an entire new suit of clothes by some of his friends and parishioners.

A correspondent of the Oregon Churchman writing from Walla Walla says: The ladies who are regular communicants have formed a Church Guild for the purpose of visiting among the sick poor and strangers and doing anything else as their motto expresses it, that their hands find to do.

The attendance at the Taylor street M E Sunday school for February was as follows: Aggregate attendance 1,158 average, including concert 31? average not including concert 28? average of infant class 18 average of officers and teachers 41. The school last Sabbath was visited and addressed in a very happy manner by Rev Mr Geary of Oregon City and Rev Mr Nickerson of Salem.

The following is the programme of exercises for the praise meeting to be held at the First Congregational Church in this city on next Sabbath evening at 7 o clock March 3d: 1 Voluntary Orchestra; 2 Chorus "Joy to the World"; 3 Prayer; 4 Chorus "He Leadeth Me"; 5 Chorus "The Water of Life"; 6 Chorus "We Love to Sing"; 7 Address H W. Scott; 8 "Dare to do Right"; 9 "America"; 10, "Land Ahead"; 11 "Cooling Spring"; 12, Address Rev Dr Atkinson; 13 Temperance Rally Song; 14, "Nearer my God to Thee"; 15 Doxology; 16, Benediction.

Habeas Corpus Granted —In the matter of the petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of the sailors of the bark Mete Judge Deady yesterday ordered the writ to issue.

Aggravated Indigestion.

Persons who are predisposed to dyspepsia, find their sufferings from this cause greatly aggravated by damp weather easterly winds and sudden changes from a mild to a chilling atmosphere. In the spring therefore the pangs of indigestion are seriously augmented by the atmospheric variations peculiar to the season, and it is incumbent upon all who desire to pass through the ordeal of its cold mists and insalubrious gales with easy stomachs, and untormented by the indescribable torments which accompany dyspepsia, to tone and strengthen the digestive organs with a healthful and effective vegetable invigorant and no one at all familiar with the medical record of the age can question for one moment that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the Tonic best adapted to this purpose.

The credentials of the Great Restorative are unequaled in number and character by those of any other advertised medicine in the world. If ever there was a preparation to rank as a National Remedy this wonderful specific has a right to the title. For a period of twenty years it has literally been the Champion Tonic and Alterative on this side of the Atlantic. In popularity it has never been approached by any of its would be competitors, and its annual sales are so far in advance of those of any other medicine of its class that comparisons would be ridiculous. One of two conclusions is inevitable: Either Americans are deficient in common sense and incapable of rational discrimination, or Hostetter's Bitters is the best preventive remedy for indigestion fever and ague, bilious remittent fever constipation, rheumatism nervous complaints, and all maladies of an epidemic or endemic type. The reader can judge for himself which of the two conclusions is most consistent with fact and reason.

LITTLE HOMES!

WE HAVE OBTAINED MANY TESTIMONIALS, which appear in the Weekly Oregonian for the purpose of answering once for all the many inquiries in relation to our LITTLE HOMES. We desire to show to strangers, through men of known integrity in this community that they are all we claim for them—cheap at present prices, and the speculation in them lies in the future growth of Portland, in the building of Railroads, and Bridges over the Willamette—which is merely a question of time—and in the fact that in less than one mile distant, City Blocks (200 feet square) are selling for from two to three thousand dollars, and in less than two-and-a-half miles (on a direct line) blocks are selling as high as $200,000 per block! Just think of it! $50 per acre for land and 2½ miles distant, $200 000 per acre! New York city is over twenty miles in length and six miles wide and many other cities in the United States are half that long and quite as wide and if Portland becomes a metropolis she will require this land for business purposes. Thirty years ago we could have purchased a section of land where the business portion of Chicago now stands for $10 per acre. $60 for a five acre tract. Thirty years ago we could have purchased the town site of Portland for a Cayuse pony—but we didn't have the pony! Twenty years ago a solitary individual, with neither money nor friends, found himself in Portland without a red. He purchased a basket on tick and filled it with oranges on the same terms, and went to peddling. Twenty long eventful years have since elapsed. Still that sturdy old pioneer has stuck to Portland and worked his way through thick and thin and now where do you think he is?—in the poor house and owes for the basket! But to our

The Young in Great Cities

[illegible] the sh[illegible] and fol[illegible] [illegible] fully [illegible] put [illegible] the following article from the [illegible] Holland [illegible] It [illegible] worthy the thoughtful perusal [illegible] young person who is tempted to [illegible] present and future [illegible]

[illegible] its lessons slowly Much [illegible] world [illegible] less [illegible] power growing [illegible] lives apparently without [illegible] caring for the reason of [illegible] disasters of [illegible] happening [illegible] has happened everywhere around them [illegible] with great trusts of [illegible] in his hands betrays the confidence [illegible] becomes a helpless defaulter and blows his brains out Another led on by love of power and place is degraded at last to a poor demagogue without character or influence [illegible] through a surrender of himself to sensuality becomes a disgusting beast with heart and brain more foul than the nests of unclean birds Another by tasting and tasting and tasting of the wine cup becomes a drunkard at last and dies in horrible delirium or lives to be a curse to wife children and friends There is an army of these poor wretches in every large city in the land dying daily and daily reinforced A young girl loving not wisely but too well yields herself to a seducer who ruins and then forsakes her to a life of shame and a death of despair Not one girl but thousands of girls yearly so that, though a great company of those whose robes are soiled beyond cleansing hide themselves in the grave every year another great quantity of the pure, drop into their places and keep filled to repletion the ranks of prostitution Again and again in instances beyond counting, are these tragedies repeated in the full presence of the rising generation and it seems to grow no wiser. Nothing has been more fully demonstrated than the first steps of folly and sin are fraught with peril Nothing has been better proved than that temperate drinking is always dangerous and that excessive drinking is always ruinous Nothing is better known than that a man cannot consort with lewd women an hour without receiving a taint that a whole lifetime of repentance cannot wholly eradicate Since time began have women been led astray by the same promises, the same pledges the empty rewards. If the young men and women could learn wisdom it would seem as if they might learn it in a single day by simply using their eyes and thinking upon what they see Yet in the great city of New York and in all the great cities of the country young men and young women are all the time repeating the mistake of those around them who are wrecked in character and fortune The young man keeps his wine bottle and seeks sports which deceived and ruined women lie in wait for prey knowing perfectly well if he knows anything, or has ever used fairly the reason which Heaven has endowed him, that he is in the broad road to perdition—that there is before him a life of disgust and a death of horror

When the result of certain courses of conduct and certain indulgences are so well known as these to which we allude it seems strange that any can enter upon them Every young man knows if he never tastes a glass of alcoholic drink he will never become or stand in danger of becoming a drunkard Every young man knows that if he preserves a chaste youth shuns the society of the lewd he can carry to the woman whom he loves a self respect which is invaluable, a past freely open to her questioning gaze, and the pure physical vitality which shall be the wealth of another generation He knows that the rewards of chastity are ten thousand times greater than those of criminal indulgence He knows that nothing is lost and everything is gained by a life of manly sobriety and self denial He knows all this if he has had his eyes open, and has exercised his reason in even a small degree and yet he joins the infatuated multitude, and goes straight to the devil We know that we do not exaggerate when we say that New York has thousands of young men with good mothers and pure sisters, who, if their lives should be uncovered, could never look those mothers and sisters in the face again They are full of fears of exposure and conscious of irreparable loss Their lives are masked in a thousand ways They live a daily lie They are the victims and slaves of vice which is just as certain to cripple or kill them, unless at once and forever forsaken as they live There are thousands of others who, now pure and good, will follow evil example unwarned by what they see, and within a year will be walking in that road that leads forever downward.

One tires talking to fools and falls back in sorrow that hell and destruction are never full—in sorrow that men cannot or will not learn that there is but one path to an honorable prosperous life, and all others lead more or less directly to ruin

An Indian Tradition

The Carson Register Nevada gives an interesting sketch of an Indian who has served as interpreter between the whites and tribes in that State in an official capacity He is a smart educated very intelligent Piute called Queep and this is his story of his people

Queep says the history of his tribe has been handed down from sire to son for several thousand years," that the Piutes were always a proud, haughty and warlike people Some two thousand years ago the tribe was at Walker Lake, where the largest band (1 800 souls) still reside About 126 years before Christ, the Nez Perce Indians (now Idaho and Oregon occupied the country along the Truckee river from Crystal Peak Pyramid Lake and the Cayuse tribe (now about the Dalles in Oregon) roamed about Humboldt Lake and the river of that name The Piutes waged war against both of these tribes for several centuries and finally conquered the whole country from the Colorado to Salmon river and from the Sierra Nevadas to Salt Lake They pushed back the Shoshones and Bannacks, drove the whole Nez Perce nation far beyond the Bannacks, into Oregon, and nearly exterminated the Cayuse tribe Queep says he has frequently visited a large cave on the eastern side of Humboldt Lake where repose several ton of slaughtered Cayuses Near the cave was fought the last great battle between the Piutes and their enemies In this battle the Cayuses were completely routed large numbers of them taking to the cave for safety For days the Piutes pressed every able bodied man, woman and child into service packing wood to fill up the entrance to the cave This done the mass was fired and all the imprisoned Cayuses perished from suffocation The remnant of the tribe escaped through the friendly Bannacks and took refuge on the Columbia river Queep says that time is reckoned by the seasons—that is by the winters—and a record kept of past events by adding together the ages of successive generations of whom the history is handed down

A GOOD WORD FOR THE MEN Mrs Emily Pitts Stevens according to a report in the San Francisco Chronicle made a very sensible speech recently in the Women s Suffrage Convention in behalf of the men She is reported as follows

She said she had been listening to the resolutions and could not speak to them All present knew her sentiments and it was not necessary to repeat them but she would say this much—she did not think the men had been treated fairly What we want is not woman s rights nor men s rights but human rights The men were not to blame for the present status of woman any more than the women themselves were It was the fault of circumstances under which all suffer alike She knew the good men of the country were in favor of women having their rights Let women stand up for their rights if they want them She believed the men of this nation were going to help the women out in this thing Mrs Leland Stanford had lately told her that she had been converted by her husband He had advocated woman suffrage for twenty years She believed all intelligent men thought women were their equals She w[illegible] [illegible] she could but would [illegible] It [illegible] to abuse [illegible] It [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] great doubt [illegible] with women than they get credit for It [illegible] necessary to impress upon them the [illegible] ity if they would [illegible] to the Government of giving to woman her rights and her proper position Mrs Stevens remarks were loudly applauded

SAVING MONEY We are every few days reminded that it is more judicious to save money than to hoard it This as expressed may seem a distinction without a difference Of the millions of industrious artisans and mechanics in this country who earn from fifteen to twenty five dollars per week we doubt if there be one fifth of the number who regularly finds in a savings or other bank for safe keeping, but do what may be termed hoard it about their houses or persons sometimes in large sums to their own discomfiture for its safety and often to its a total loss by fire or theft This is doing themselves a wrong as well as the great business public who would be glad to pay them for the use of this hoarded wealth Every man or woman who has a few dollars to spare weekly or monthly, over current expenses should deposit them in some savings or other banks and by so doing where fifty absolutely lose their money,by hoarding it away, probably not one of this number would lose it by being a depositor in some bank It is not only safer but then it becomes part of the great current wealth of the country makes money more plenty and assists the various avenues of trade and commerce that must be carried on to make good times for the rich and poor alike If all the currency of the country were put in our pockets and kept there business would have to cease or we would have to resort to the primitive method of swapping brass buttons for wooden or a peck of oats for a pound of butter, in order to make any exchange of business

On the 11th February the Republican State Central Committee of Ohio met at Columbus adopted resolutions in favor of appointing delegates to the National Convention The State Convention also ask several counties in the State to choose Central Committees in the spring instead of fall, as heretofore In the evening the committee met again, with Republican members of the Legislature and a number of editors of Republican papers Governor Noyes made a speech in favor of the renomination of President Grant and in favor of the nomination of Wm Dennison of Ohio, for Vice President Resolutions were adopted declaring the hope that the entire Republican party would unite in the renomination of Grant, and declaring Wm Dennison to be the first choice of the Republicans of Ohio for Vice President, and commending him to the Republicans of the nation The 27th of March was chosen as the time for holding the State Convention.

Remittances from the interior continue with more liberality from sections east of the Cascades. So far as we are aware there is more ease in commercial circles than has been felt at anytime within the past six months Regular customers are accommodated at bank at usual rates Speculators find difficulty in having their obligations taken—only at higher rates, and with the best of security Street rates are a shade easier with a growing ease in commercial circles

The Br bark Coldstream, Fletcher master from Liverpool with assorted merchandise, arrived at her wharf this afternoon She draws 16 feet of water and had no difficulty in coming up

The steamship Gussie Telfair's day of departure for Sitka has been postponed to Saturday March 2d

The schooner Augustus, for Tillamook is receiving cargo

Business for the week under review was very slack in the fore part but for the past few days has been quite active, causing all our leading firms to have all they could attend to They find that notwithstanding having heavy stocks on hand they have none too much for the trade that is setting in which from advices received from east of the Cascades will increase in volume instead of decreasing From what we can learn business will not only improve now but will continue through the entire year in greater volume than has ever before marked our trade with the interior

Produce Market.

BREAD—Quotable, Soda 7c; Picnic 7c Butter 7c Jenny Lind, 11c Gingersnaps, 15c Pilot, extra 5½c Medium 5c; Navy 4c.

WHEAT—The market for the week under review has been languid with no transactions outside of a line of 3 000 centals to a shipper The bark Belle is finishing taking in cargo at Springville—about 1 700 sacks—when she will clear for Cork for orders The ship Chetah is now on the berth and will receive quick dispatch The Coldstream, in Messrs Janion & Rhodes line, will probably be secured for Cork as she is a desirable vessel Reports from the interior agree in stating that the unfavorable weather prevents plowing, but every favorable opportunity is taken advantage of for preparing the soil for seeding Receipts for the past week have been light owing to communication with the interior being interrupted by the high state of the water in the Willamette river and its tributaries, but at this writing receipts are again free We quote shippers offers at $1 83@1 85 ℘ cental sacked.

FLOUR—Since our last week s review no exports have been made, owing to the non-arrival of the steamship in the California line and also the Victoria and Puget Sound steamer There are several orders on the market from Sound ports and more expected by the steamship California due Sunday night.
